

The Center for Equity and Postsecondary Attainment's (CEPA) Professional Development Courses

This comprehensive professional development program is designed for college counselors, career advisors, and educators who are interested in creating fair and balanced pathways to postsecondary success. You'll learn proven strategies that lead to better advising outcomes. Upon completion of course requirements, you will earn a CEPA Certificate of Completion and 2.5 Continuing Education Units (CEU's) are available per course through SDSU Global Campus.

Advanced Topics in College and Career Counseling

Build on our Foundations course and acquire the skills and knowledge you need to help your students prepare for postsecondary education and careers. This course will provide an opportunity for counselors to dive deeper into topics discussed in the foundations course.

Topics Covered

- College advising during a pandemic
- The intersectionality of COVID-19, mental health and wellness, anti-racist school counseling practice and college and career readiness
- Connecting postsecondary planning to career and workforce development goals
- Engaging students and families intentionally in postsecondary decisions and program planning
- Addressing transition planning and COVID-19/ summer melt (elementary to middle, middle to high, high to postsecondary)
- Maximizing student success in the postsecondary attainment process

Designed For

- Professional & Pre-Service School Counselors
- College Access Professionals
- Educators

What's a CEU?

Continuing Education Units (CEUs) provide a permanent record of your educational accomplishments in a non-credit educational program. CEUs are not academic units and do not appear on an SDSU transcript and cannot be applied to degree work at institutions of higher education. This course requires 25 hours of coursework (approximately 1.5 hours a week) to receive 2.5 CEU's.

For more information, please contact cepa@sdsu.edu.